From old blasons it might be inferred that a cross moline was originally a pierced cross sarcelly; but as later writers have used the terms sarcelly or recercily for voided throughout, and sometimes for fimbriated, and even for cotised, the following entries are made in accordance with the original blasons, and where the coats have been tricked the present nomenclature has been adopted; the same system has been adopted where flory or patty have been used for patonce.

.... a cross patty ..... Augustinian Priory at GREISELEY, co. Derby; impaling, vairy erm. and gu.

.... a cross moline .... CHRIST'S HOSPITAL, co. Lincoln.
